Key risks

- The value of shares is sensitive to market fluctuations, instrument prices, and changes in political, economic, or market conditions. Equity theme funds have a view on a specific segment of the equity market. By making the choice to focus on a specific segment the fund becomes more volatile as price movements of shares within this theme tend to have a larger impact on the value of the fund.
- The fund may use financial derivatives.
- A (derivative) counterparty may fail to fulfil its obligations. Counterparty risk is reduced by exchanging collateral.
- The fund invests in assets that could become less liquid in certain market conditions, which may affect their value.
- This fund both promotes ESG characteristics and has sustainable investing as its objective. Sustainability risks are integrated in the investment decisions and may impact returns.

Performance commentary

Based on transaction prices, the fund's return was 10.62%.

In May, the fund outperformed the MSCI World Index strongly, with both stock selection and sector allocation firmly in the green. Asian holdings dominated the list of top performance contributors. The strong IP and technological know-how of many specialized Asian companies are currently being rewarded as investors gain a better understanding of the critical roles they play in the AI supply chain. Seven of the top ten contributors were Asian holdings. From a sector perspective, the strongest contributions came from the fund's two largest overweights – technology and industrials. The materials sector also made a noticeable positive contribution during the month. On the other side of the spectrum, healthcare was the main relative performance detractor. The fund also outperformed its internal benchmark, driven primarily by stock selection. Asset allocation was slightly negative. The top five contributors versus the internal benchmark were Snowflake, SK hynix, Infineon, Union Tool and ASE Technology.

Market development

The fund delivered a strong performance in May, supported by positive earnings revisions in industrials and technology, as well as the de-escalation of tensions with Iran. Bottlenecks and capacity constraints across many parts of the semiconductor supply chain continue to drive earnings upgrades, as investors and analysts raise expectations for both pricing and volumes. Another area worth highlighting is the increasingly positive commentary around industrial demand. In the context of today's narrow bull market, this is particularly encouraging, as it allows for a slow but steady broadening of participation beyond a relatively small group of stocks. May also saw a number of notable 'software squeezes'. One fund holding, Snowflake, saw its share price surge >30% after quarterly results provided evidence that this may indeed be the case. However, for some software stocks it is more about investor positioning than any meaningful improvement in the fundamental challenges facing their business models.

Expectation of fund manager

As investors' fears of spillover effects from the Iran conflict continued to subside, markets extended their sharp recovery from the March lows. A strong earnings season helped. So where do we go from here? Further tangible relief on the geopolitical front is probably less likely to trigger another sharp upward move in markets. What it could do, is reduce inflation fears, increase confidence in the industrial cycle and potentially drive a rotation toward the more economically sensitive parts of the market. For businesses that are leveraged to the economic cycle, we are seeing signs of improvement. The anticipated wave of mega-IPOs continues to fuel concerns about crowding out in the broader equity market. Academic literature and evidence from previous issuance waves suggest that such periods have often coincided with a strong equity market. Nevertheless, these concerns could in themselves contribute to greater market volatility in the months ahead.

Top 10 largest holdings

In May, we initiated a new position in Novanta and continued to add to our existing positions in Wesco and Victory Giant. We exited two smaller holdings that, in our view, had largely reached their potential: Topco and Midea. Within the top ten holdings, Acter and ASE Technology entered the list, replacing Comfort Systems and Cencora. The reduction in Comfort Systems was an active portfolio decision, as the share price had performed exceptionally well and valuations became less compelling. Cencora moved out of the top ten following a share price decline after earnings disappointed investors. Acter is a Taiwanese company. It is one of the market leaders in the design and construction of clean rooms. In our view, the stock offered both attractive valuations and strong IP in a field that is seeing rapidly growing demand. ASE Technology is one of the global leaders in advanced packaging and testing services for semiconductor manufacturers, making it a direct beneficiary of the increasing chips complexity.

Sector allocation

The fund invests in four distinct investment clusters, with the following exposure per end of February. 'Redesign Inputs': 33%; 'Enabling Technologies': 19%; 'Circular Use': 30%; and 'Loop Resources': 18%. As a result, the portfolio is invested mostly in the industrials, information technology, materials, consumer discretionary, consumer staples and healthcare sectors.

Regional allocation

The country allocation of the fund is purely the result of the bottom-up stock selection process of companies exposed to the shift to a circular economy. Consequently, the fund is currently overweight in Western Europe and underweight in North America compared to the MSCI World.

Currency allocation

The fund has no currency hedges in place. The currency allocation of the fund is purely a result of the bottom-up stock selection process. Internal investment guidelines limit currency deviations versus the investable universe to a maximum of 10%.

Reference

1. SDG Impact Alignment

This distribution across SDG scores shows the portfolio weight allocated to companies with a positive, negative and neutral impact alignment with the Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) based on Robeco's SDG Framework. The framework utilizes a three-step approach to assess a company's impact alignment with the relevant SDGs and assign a total SDG score. The score ranges from positive to negative impact alignment with levels from high, medium or low impact alignment. Only holdings mapped as corporates are included in the figures.

2. Sustainalytics ESG Risk Rating

The chart displays the portfolio's Sustainalytics ESG Risk Rating. This is calculated by multiplying each portfolio component's Sustainalytics ESG Risk Rating by its respective portfolio weight. The distribution across Sustainalytics ESG Risk levels chart shows the portfolio allocations broken into Sustainalytics' five ESG risk levels: negligible (0-10), low (10-20), medium (20-30), high (30-40) and severe (40+), providing an overview of portfolio exposure to the different ESG risk levels.

Only holdings mapped as corporates are included in the figures.

3. Exclusions

The charts display the degree of adherence to exclusion applied by Robeco. Thresholds are based on revenues unless otherwise indicated. For more information about the exclusion policy and which level applies, please refer to the Exclusion Policy and Exclusion List available on Robeco.com.

4. Environmental Footprint

Environmental footprint expresses the total resource consumption of the portfolio per mUSD invested. Each assessed company's footprint is calculated by normalizing resources consumed by the company's enterprise value including cash (EVIC). We aggregate these figures to portfolio level using a weighted average, multiplying each assessed portfolio constituent's footprint by its respective position weight. The equivalent factors that are used for comparison between the portfolio and index (where applicable) represent European averages and are based on third-party sources combined with own estimates. As such, the figures presented are intended for illustrative purposes and are purely an indication. Only holdings mapped as corporates are included in the figures.

5. Engagement

Robeco distinguishes between three types of engagement.

Value Engagement focuses on long-term issues that are financially material and/or are causing adverse sustainability impacts. The themes can be broken into Environmental, Social, Governance, or Voting-related. SDG Engagement aims to drive a clear and measurable improvement in a company's SDG contribution. Enhanced engagement is triggered by misconduct and focuses on companies severely breaching international standards. The report is based on all companies in the portfolio for which engagement activities have taken place during the past 12 months. Note that companies may be under engagement in multiple categories simultaneously. While the total portfolio exposure excludes double counting, it may not equal the sum of individual category exposures.
