

Robeco Global Consumer Trends F EUR

Robeco Global Consumer Trends is an actively managed fund that invests in stocks in developed and emerging countries across the world. The selection of these stocks is based on fundamental analysis. The fund's objective is to achieve a better return than the index. The fund invests in a number of structural growth trends in consumer spending. The first is the "digital transformation of consumption". The second trend is that of the growth in the "emerging middle class". The third trend focuses on the increasing importance of "health & wellbeing". The fund managers aim to select stocks of the structural winners within these trends.

Performance

Indexed value (until 30-04-2023) - Source: Robeco

Performance

Based on transaction prices, the fund's return was 0.54%.

After three consecutive positive contributions, our Digital Transformation of Consumption theme made a negative contribution. The main culprit was Tesla, where shares declined 21% last month. On the other hand, Fiserv shares closed at a 52-week high after the merchant acquirer lifted the lower end of its revenue guidance and reported a solid start to the year. Our Emerging Middle Class exposure made a neutral contribution. There was a clear distinction between the direct and indirect exposure last month, with the directly exposed companies all under pressure. The pressure was the most among the Chinese e-commerce players – both PDD and Alibaba lost significant ground. Finally, our Health and Wellbeing trend made a large positive contribution last month as defensive stocks came back on to investors' radars.

Portfolio changes

We have made very few changes to our portfolio. Given the strength in luxury goods, we have taken some profits from LVMH. We have slightly lowered the weight in this company, but it remains the second-largest position in the strategy.

Market development

Geopolitical tensions with China, a war in Europe, a mini-banking crisis and concerns about the debt ceiling in the US, everything is happening at the same time. Yet, equity markets remain unperturbed, helped by big tech stocks that continued their solid gains for the year with better-than-expected results. As a result, the S&P 500 Index rose 1.5% in April and is now up 8.6% for the year. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index is up just 2.2% so far in 2023, while the MSCI All Country World Index (in EUR) fell 0.2% (rose 1.4% in USD) last month. Emerging market stocks lagged due to concerns about the pace of the economic recovery in China. In Europe, the FTSE Eurotop 100 posted a 2.1% rise, the fourth straight month of gains. Similarly, the TOPIX Index of the largest Japanese businesses rose 2.7% and has gained every month this year.

Expectation of fund manager

A regime of rising interest rates presents a more challenging environment for companies with high long-term growth potential. Luckily, central banks have indicated that we are nearing the end of interest rate increases and high but easing levels of inflation may support investor sentiment in the first half of the year. We remain steadfast in our belief that long-term investors should focus on high-quality businesses with valuable intangible assets, low capital intensity, high margins and superior returns on capital. Companies with these traits have historically delivered above-average returns, while offering downside protection in volatile market environments. Firms that exhibit these characteristics are poised to deliver healthy revenue and earnings growth in the future and we therefore expect them to continue to generate attractive long-term returns. We believe premium valuations for these businesses are justified given the quality of their business models, the high levels of earnings growth and the sustainability of their franchises. We continue to have a positive long-term outlook for our investments.

Sustainability

The fund incorporates sustainability in the investment process through exclusions, ESG integration, engagement and voting. The fund does not invest in issuers that are in breach of international norms or where activities have been deemed detrimental to society following Robeco's exclusion policy. Financially material ESG factors are integrated in the bottom-up investment analysis to assess existing and potential ESG risks and opportunities. In the stock selection the fund limits exposure to elevated sustainability risks. In addition, where a stock issuer is flagged for breaching international standards in the ongoing monitoring, the issuer will become subject to engagement. Lastly, the fund makes use of shareholder rights and applies proxy voting in accordance with Robeco's proxy voting policy.

Asset Allocation

Investment policy

Robeco Global Consumer Trends is an actively managed fund that invests in stocks in developed and emerging countries across the world. The selection of these stocks is based on fundamental analysis. The fund's objective is to achieve a better return than the index. The fund promotes E&S (i.e. Environmental and Social) characteristics within the meaning of Article 8 of the European Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation, integrates sustainability risks in the investment process and applies Robeco's Good Governance policy. The fund applies sustainability indicators, including but not limited to normative, activity-based and region-based exclusions, proxy voting and engagement. The fund invests in a number of structural growth trends in consumer spending. The first is the "digital transformation of consumption". The second trend is that of the growth in the "emerging middle class". The third trend focuses on the increasing importance of "health & wellbeing". The fund managers aims to select stocks of the structural winners within these trends. The majority of stocks selected will be components of the Benchmark, but stocks outside the Benchmark may be selected too. The investment policy is not constrained by a Benchmark but the fund may use a benchmark for comparison purposes. The fund can deviate substantially from the issuer, country and sector weightings of the Benchmark. There are no restrictions on the deviation from the Benchmark. The Benchmark is a broad market weighted index that is not consistent with the ESG characteristics promoted by the fund.
