Performance

Based on transaction prices, the fund's return was 0.22%.

Robeco BP US Large Cap Equities trailed the Russell 1000 Value Index in April, with stock selection having the largest impact. Stock selection lagged in communication services, healthcare and industrials. In communication services, our position in entertainment company Activision Blizzard detracted from relative returns, as did not owning Meta Platforms. In healthcare, pharmaceutical company Bristol-Myers Squibb and clinical research organization ICON both underperformed. Within industrials, agricultural machinery firms Deere and United Rentals detracted from the relative performance. Sector allocation detracted due to the fund's overweight to technology and industrials and underweight to communication services. Our overweight to energy and healthcare aided the relative performance during the month. Stock selection was positive in financials and consumer discretionary. In financials, banks such as JPMorgan Chase and Wells Fargo contributed positively to relative returns. In consumer discretionary, specialty retailer AutoZone continues to outperform.

Market development

Equity markets in the United States as measured by the S&P 500 Index climbed 1.56% higher in the first month of the second quarter. Looking at the Russell equity indices, value outperformed core and growth in the large-cap and mid-cap space, while trailing in the small-cap part of the market.

Expectation of fund manager

Worries continue around the US regional banks, with First Republic being the latest casualty. Whether this was the last bank to fail, remains unclear. While definite progress has been made in reducing headline inflation, core inflation readings remain elevated and 'sticky', as the Fed's favored measure, the Core PCE, stands at 4.6% and well above the Fed target of 2%, and not much lower than the February 2022 peak level of 5.4%. By the end of April, 261 of the S&P 500 companies had reported Q1 earnings results. Earnings reported were a negative -2.3% on a year-over-year basis, that was +6.6% better than estimates for those companies reporting. Adding those results to the expectations for the remaining companies left to report, puts the S&P 500 on pace for a -3.77% drop in Q1 earnings on a year-over-year basis, much better than the -6.59% forecast entering the Q1 reporting period. The fund remains well positioned with holdings that reflect Boston Partners' three-circle characteristics – attractive valuations, solid business fundamentals, and identifiable catalysts.
