Performance

Based on transaction prices, the fund's return was 0.64%.

Robeco BP US Premium Equities underperformed the Russell 3000 Value Index in April, with sector allocation impacting the fund. The fund slightly underperformed the Russell 3000 Value Index as a result of sector allocation during the month, a fallout of the bottom-up stock selection process. Overweight exposure to information technology, the worst-performing sector falling -5.5%, was the largest detractor from relative returns, while having underweight exposure to consumer staples and communication services also weighed on the relative performance. On a positive note, from a stock selection perspective, the fund added most value in the financials, healthcare and energy sectors. Within financials, the fund's insurance holdings rebounded from the previous month, led by Aflac, AIG, RenaissanceRe and White Mountains, while healthcare, a sector where the fund added most value in 2022, saw the fund's managed care companies – Centene, Humana and Molina – climbing 9% or more in the month. Integrated majors, Shell and BP, rose 6% and 8% respectively, adding to relative returns, while avoiding refiner Valero Energy was also additive, as the stock fell -18%.

Market development

Equity markets in the United States as measured by the S&P 500 Index climbed 1.56% higher in the first month of the second quarter. Looking at the Russell equity indices, value outperformed core and growth in the large-cap and mid-cap space, while trailing in the small-cap part of the market.

Expectation of fund manager

Worries continue around the US regional banks, with First Republic being the latest casualty. Whether this was the last bank to fail, remains unclear. While definite progress has been made in reducing headline inflation, core inflation readings remain elevated and 'sticky', as the Fed's favored measure, the Core PCE, stands at 4.6% and well above the Fed target of 2%, and not much lower than the February 2022 peak level of 5.4%. By the end of April, 261 of the S&P 500 companies had reported Q1 earnings results. Earnings reported were a negative -2.3% on a year-over-year basis, that was +6.6% better than estimates for those companies reporting. Adding those results to the expectations for the remaining companies left to report, puts the S&P 500 on pace for a -3.77% drop in Q1 earnings on a year-over-year basis, much better than the -6.59% forecast entering the Q1 reporting period. The fund remains well positioned with holdings that reflect Boston Partners' three-circle characteristics – attractive valuations, solid business fundamentals, and identifiable catalysts.
