ROBECO CREDIT INCOME

Finding Value in Carry Amid Tight Spreads

- Resilient credit markets despite volatility
- Cautious on credit beta
- Attractive carry in subordinated financials and high yield

Credit markets were broadly resilient despite a risk-off backdrop, with overall spreads only modestly wider and investment grade holding up better than more cyclical areas. Weakness was most evident in technology-linked credit, where data centre and semiconductor issuers cheapened amid heavier supply and softer sentiment towards AI. Market developments were dominated by higher US and European government yields after a hawkish-leaning Fed message, while Gulf tensions briefly lifted oil before easing.

Market Developments

The conflict in the Gulf region escalated again, causing renewed disruption to shipping through the Strait of Hormuz. Oil prices rose above USD 90 per barrel, although toward month-end signs of progress towards reopening the strait eased concerns and oil prices gave back part of their earlier gains. The Federal Reserve left interest rates unchanged at its July meeting, though three FOMC members voted for a rate hike. Fed Chair Warsh offered limited guidance in the subsequent press conference, which was poorly received by bond markets, and Treasury yields moved sharply higher.

Investors also became more sceptical about the expected returns from AI-related investments, prompting significant moves within the technology sector. In credit markets, spreads on data centre bonds widened as the expected wave of new issuance weighed on valuations, and spreads on bonds issued by highly rated semiconductor companies also widened materially during the month. For another month, market volatility was concentrated mainly in government bond markets rather than credit spreads: five-year Treasury yields rose by 22 bps to 4.45%, while five-year European government bond yields increased by 34 bps to 2.94%. Credit indices widened only modestly over the period.

Portfolio positioning

The fund's credit beta stands at 0.94, indicating a cautious risk positioning versus the benchmark, and has moved up from 0.84 over the period. The major rating changes were increased exposure to BBB-rated bonds and A-rated bonds, with BBB moving to a large overweight; the largest overweights remain in BB and BBB, while the largest underweights are in B, CCC and A.

PORTFOLIO MANAGER'S UPDATE - JULY 2026

Marketing material for professional investors, not for onward distribution

Evert Giesen
Portfolio Manager

Jan Willem Knoll
Portfolio Manager

By country, exposure increased in the United States and Germany; Germany moved to a small overweight and Spain changed to a small overweight, with the largest overweights in Spain, Germany and the Netherlands, and the largest underweight in the United States.

At sector level, after the widening in the technology sector we have started to add exposure in specific datacenter deals. These bonds trade at attractive spreads for their rating and are backed by lease commitments from AA rated companies. We also added exposure to semiconductor companies.

In terms of subordination, exposure increased in senior corporates, with the largest overweights in subordinated financials, LT2 and hybrid corporates, and the largest underweights in senior corporates and senior financials.

The fund's largest issuer positions include MUFG, a Japanese banking group; Republic of Indonesia, an Indonesian sovereign issuer; BBVA, a Spanish bank; Oracle, a US technology company; and AXA, a French insurance group.

Performance

The fund returned -0.25% in July 2026. Credit performance contributed +19 bps, with issuer selection the key positive driver and beta neutral.

Within allocation effects, currency selection (+7 bps) was supportive, driven by an overweight to EUR and an underweight to USD. Country selection (+2 bps) added modestly, helped by an underweight to the United States. Sector selection (+4 bps) contributed, led by underweights in technology and communications. Rating (+2 bps) was slightly positive, supported by an underweight to CCC. Subordination (+6 bps) also added value, driven by an overweight to subordinated financials.

The main contributors were Altice Finco SA (not invested, +2 bps), Virgin Media (not invested, +2 bps) and CoreWeave Inc (not invested, +1 bps). The main detractors were Oracle Corp (overweight, -1 bps) and PennyMac Financial Services Inc (new position, -1 bps).

Year-to-date, the fund returned 1.51% for the USD shared class. Credit performance was positive (1.45%), with issuer selection contributing positively while beta detracted. Within allocation effects, currency selection (-13 bps) detracted, driven by an underweight in USD and an overweight in EUR. Sector selection (+2 bps) was modestly supportive, helped by underweights in technology and communications and overweights in sovereign, utilities, and banking, partly offset by the underweight in transportation. Rating allocation (+7 bps) added value, supported by an overweight in BB and underweights in A, CCC, and CC. Subordination (+4 bps) was also positive, driven by an overweight in subordinated financials. Key contributors included Virgin Media (not invested, +5 bps), CSC Holdings LLC (not invested, +5 bps), and Thames Investments Ltd (not invested, +3 bps). The main detractors were Braskem SA (-4 bps) and PennyMac Financial Services Inc (new position, -4 bps).

Outlook

The situation in the Gulf region remains unpredictable. While the global economy has so far proved resilient in the face of higher oil prices, geopolitical risks remain elevated. Nevertheless, economic growth is likely to remain reasonably robust, supported by continued investment in technology and ongoing fiscal stimulus measures. Inflation, however, is expected to remain a key challenge for policymakers.

In this environment, we expect higher-carry assets, such as subordinated debt and high-yield bonds, to continue to perform well. However, despite the more constructive macroeconomic backdrop, credit spreads remain tight by historical standards, warranting a selective investment approach with an emphasis on shorter spread-duration instruments.

Inflation remains above central bank targets, underpinned by continued economic strength and energy price volatility. As a result, we maintain a cautious duration stance, favouring intermediate maturities where valuations appear more balanced and exposure to interest-rate risk is less pronounced.

Sustainability

The portfolio makes a high contribution to SDG 1 (No poverty), SDG 8 (Decent work and economic growth), SDG 9 (Industry, innovation and infrastructure) and SDG 11 (Sustainable cities & communities). Our holdings in the banking and insurance sector and in emerging markets contribute the most to these SDGs. Our holdings in the telecom and technology sectors also contribute positively to SDG 8 (Decent work and economic growth) and SDG 9 (Industry, innovation and infrastructure).
