Driven by data, sharpened through innovation.
Predictably different. Distinctively Robeco.

Why Active ETFs?

Why Robeco?

Our one-stop ETF shop

As active ETFs continue to grow in popularity, more investors are incorporating these products into their portfolios.

But what makes them so appealing, and why is Robeco well positioned to deliver these solutions?

The evolution of Active ETFs

Exchange-traded funds (ETFs) began life as simple trackers: cost-efficient ways to follow an index. Active ETFs take that concept significantly further, combining the liquidity, transparency, and flexibility of an ETF structure with the potential for outperformance that comes from skilled active management.

In practice, this means investors get much more than just market exposure: they gain access to research-driven insights, sophisticated systematic models, and AI-driven investment ideas, all wrapped in a structure that trades seamlessly on exchange throughout the trading day.

ACCESS AND FLEXIBILITY

In numbers: Active ETFs today

Where active ETFs were once confined to a small corner of the investment universe, that picture has changed dramatically, driven by structural shifts in investor preferences and regulatory improvements.

USD 17.3 tln

GLOBAL ETF ASSETS
More than doubled since USD 7.6 trillion in 2020

USD 2.7 tln

FIXED INCOME ETFs
Now core holdings as investors seek efficiency in volatile rate environments

Up from 2.4% in 2019, showing the speed at which active ETFs in Europe are catching up

USD 1.5 tln

ACTIVE ETF ASSETS
Up from USD 228 billion in 2020; now representing one in ten ETF dollars invested globally

This transformation reflects investor demand for lower costs and greater accessibility than mutual funds, transparency with intraday liquidity, and a vehicle for innovation spanning systematic equities to climate bonds and AI-driven thematics. Regulatory reforms have unlocked new possibilities in the US and beyond.

The bottom line – Active ETFs are no longer a niche experiment: they're fundamentally reshaping global investments.

The question for investors is no longer whether active ETFs belong in modern portfolios, but rather which active ETF strategies can best serve their specific objectives.

Why Robeco's Active ETFs?

We have a broad range of active ETFs which play to our strengths. Our active ETFs are engineered not just for current market conditions, but for long-term portfolio success.

“By grounding our ETFs in research and innovation, we design strategies built to last

Nick King, Head of ETFs

3D ETFs: Smarter core building blocks

Robeco’s 3D ETFs move beyond the limitations of traditional passive strategies, offering a refined approach to core portfolio construction. They dynamically balance return, risk, and sustainability for long-term outperformance.

Dimension 1: Return
Portfolios are constructed through many small, strategic adjustments within broad stock universes, creating diversified exposures to companies with stronger fundamentals and better return potential while limiting risk. Our proprietary stock selection model is based on five proven factors: value, quality, momentum, analyst revisions and short-term signals.

Dimension 2: Risk
Risk is actively managed through systematic monitoring and disciplined rebalancing. Market movements can cause individual stocks or sectors to drift from target weights; our optimization process corrects these shifts while controlling turnover and trading costs. Each position is assessed against multiple risk indicators to maintain diversification, liquidity, and benchmark alignment.

Dimension 3: Sustainability
We incorporate five sustainability elements as input when defining our investment universe, selecting stocks and optimizing portfolios. These are Robeco’s SDG Framework, environmental footprints (carbon, waste, water), ESG risk ratings, active ownership (voting and engagement), and exclusions. Companies that score well are favored over their more poorly scoring counterparts.

BEYOND THE LIMITS OF PASSIVE

Passive strategies, while low-cost, can miss alpha opportunities and carry concentration risk, especially in today’s environment. Moreover, they often overlook sustainability considerations, exposing investors to long-term financial and ESG-related risks.

THE 3D APPROACH

Built on our established Enhanced Indexing platform, our 3D ETFs aim to outperform while staying close to the benchmark. Their unique feature is the integration of sustainability as a third dimension, alongside risk and return, balancing financial outcomes with long-term resilience.

3D ETFs: Smarter core building blocks

With portfolios that are explicitly optimized across these three dimensions all at once, dynamic trade-offs can be made between them in order to meet long-term financial and sustainability goals.

Dynamic Theme Machine: Capturing innovation

Thematic investing offers access to tomorrow’s growth stories, but effective timing and adaptability are crucial for capturing true innovation.

THE THEMATIC CHALLENGE

Many thematic funds launch only after a trend is already mainstream, leaving investors chasing late-stage returns. Others remain in fading themes for too long.

With hundreds of themes to choose from, investors face the additional challenge of combining single-theme funds, often ending up with concentrated exposures, high tracking error, and limited diversification – rather than the balanced growth they were seeking.

DYNAMIC THEME MACHINE

Our ETF tackles these challenges head-on through a systematic, multi-thematic approach that blends quant expertise with AI insight.

Using NLP across company reports, earnings calls, and media sources, the DTM ETF detects emerging themes early.

Entries and exits are timed dynamically, scaling exposure up when conviction strengthens and reducing it as themes become overcrowded or overpriced.

BROAD INNOVATION ACCESS

Benchmarked against the MSCI World, a 5% tracking error limit aims to offer a well-behaved portfolio.

The combination of multiple themes in one diversified, benchmark-aware ETF gives investors access to an evolving universe of innovation.

Fixed income ETF: Broadening horizons

Robeco’s first fixed income ETF provides broad eurozone government bond exposure while systematically tilting toward countries that are leading the climate transition. Unlike many sustainable bond products that focus narrowly on green bonds or backward-looking emissions data, this ETF integrates a forward-looking view of climate performance.

INTEGRATED INDICATORS

Forward looking view of each countries climate-transition performance by scoring each country based on three pillars:

- Ambition – evaluating countries’ decarbonization targets
- Policy – assessing climate legislation, carbon pricing, and fossil fuel phase-out
- Evidence – analyzing actual emissions trends and alignment with 1.5°C pathways

PORTFOLIO CONSTRUCTION

Active portfolio construction allows the climate objective to be achieved while maintaining duration and yield profile that is consistent with the broader market.

DESIRED OUTCOME

The result is climate characteristics equal to or better than the ETF’s benchmark, with market-like risk-return characteristics.

Climate-conscious approach
Prefers sovereign bonds from countries with most credible net-zero transition approaches

Market-like risk and returns
Targets similar risk-return profile as broad market index

Transparent, low-cost ETF solution
Rules-based approach with attractive management fee

Combining our recognized expertise in quant, fixed income and sustainable investing, this ETF supports the climate transition without compromising its role as a core, stable portfolio building block within a diversified investment strategy.

Active ETFs are fundamentally reshaping portfolios worldwide, offering unprecedented combinations of accessibility, transparency, and sophisticated investment strategies. Whether you're constructing core portfolio exposures or seeking innovative strategic tilts, Robeco's Active ETFs are designed to adapt to your specific objectives.
